

TWO ARRESTED IN ONE MAN CAR ROW

Two passengers were in the car, Mrs. R. Morrison, 2514 Twelfth, third avenue, and R. T. Wood, ward, 2166 East Twenty-seventh street.

Names of both were taken and they will likely be called tomorrow as witnesses.
Captain Lynch made the arrests without a warrant, basing his case on the fact that he was a witness to an alleged misdemeanor. A. L. Lundberg, president of the Key System, said tonight that a continuance of the cases of Potter and Fouts will probably be asked tomorrow. He hinted that if the city of Oakland succeeds in convicting the two men, the case will be continued to the Supreme Court.

Test Case

The one man service in the downtown section of the city was begun over several lines, following the state Railroad Commission's recent approval of the plan. Holding that such service forms a traffic hazard, the city of Oakland has opposed its inauguration. Higgins also has questioned jurisdiction of the Railroad over utilities within the city corporate limits.

Higgins declared the test case arising from today's arrest will be carried through promptly by Oakland.

NEEDY AIDED BY SALVATION ARMY

During the past three weeks only from Nov. 21 to Dec. 1, the Salvation Army has found temporary employment for 16 women and 18 men. The employment bureau has met with such splendid success that it has been decided to continue it indefinitely. Some of the jobs secured last for more than one month.

The following statistics cover the same period of time:
35 employment; 21 families given groceries; 80 garments distributed and 3 overcoats; 11 pairs of shoes given away; 15 have been given food and 7 meals.

The Salvation Army is arranging to supply at least 35 baskets for Christmas, and 700 children will be given toys, candy and nuts.

Steps are already being taken to tell of some unfortunate who are in need. Many mothers find it difficult to keep back the tears when the children ask if Santa Claus will remember them. One said "little did I think last year at this time as I helped the Salvation Army with things for the needy, that this year I would be in those circumstances. It seems almost more than I can bear at times."

An earnest appeal is made for the enormous Christmas the Salvation Army is sponsoring, drop the money in the kettles on the street or send checks payable to the Salvation Army Christmas

Romance and glamorous adventure are part and parcel of San Francisco and its environs.

From the days of the goldseekers, through the dramatic years of the sandlot riots, the great political upheavals, the fire and the city's rehabilitation and its present commercial and social position
—there has never been a time it was other than fascinating. No city boasts a character more pronounced and more unique. Its characteristics are its own. Its waterfront, from the sea wall, and the picturesque North Beach section to the Ferry Building and beyond.

Thus "Waterfront" the First Na-
Mackaill and Jack Mulhall at the California theater today, has a background certain to provoke interest, because it is laid in that district of San Francisco, with accompanying sequences on the ferryboats, a tugboat and a tramp steamer with its romantic cargo from the spice-laden isles of the Pacific.

This new comedy drama interprets with great attention to atmosphere and local color, the story of a young girl, daughter of a doughty tugboat captain and her romance with a good looking and happy go lucky outer on a tramp vessel. Other characters come and go but these two predominate and their love affair, stormy as the seas themselves, results finally in a happy ending. Throughout there is fun and fascinating character drawing.

Tom Geraghy wrote the script and William L. Selter is the director. Both are familiar with San Francisco.

Unique Flavor
The story possesses something of the flavor of Frank Norris' unforgettable novelette "Blix," and again of Jack London's "Valley of the Moon" and "John Barleycorn." Yet it is utterly unlike any of these. It is simply that no story of San Francisco—especially that has to do with the waterfront—can fail to contain the same in-redients that writers invariably recognize as all-pervading influences. San Francisco is unique. Its waterfront life is different from that of any harbor in the world.

As one strolls along the huge docks, watches the great liners enter their slips, or the puffing tugs busily engaged in conveying their lumbering tows to a safe harbor; or the big, crowded ferry-boats crunched in their berths;
or again, the fishermen's fleets arriving with their cargoes of flimsy cavities or starting on the day's trips out to the Farallones, past Angel Island, Alcatraz or other of the beautiful landmarks of the bay and ocean—the spirit of adventure is reborn in the heart and the desire to be off and away across the foam and through the Golden Gate into the open arms of Mildred Chance.

The fog descends, the huge foghorns bellow their warnings, then comes a wind that clears away the mists, and San Francisco emerges upon seven hills, like Rome, a vast, gleaming metropolis, peopled by men and women who have withstood the buffeting of fate and have invariably come up smiling.

UNDERWORLD IN SILLS FILM AT RICHMOND

A world of itself with its own kings, its own peculiar set of scruples, rules of conduct and breaches of etiquette, a world possessing almost a language of its own, that is the "underworld" of America today.

Only when it pushes its way into the newspapers by some extraordinary event do the figures, famous in the underworld, come to the surface for general observation.

Such a world is dramatically depicted in "The Hawk's Nest," the First National picture starring Milton Sills, which comes to the Richmond theater beginning tonight.

That the underworld has a strict code all its own is apparent. Nothing in the world is so hated as a "double crosser" or a "stooppigeon." One may steal from his strangers but never from one's friends. Many a criminal has refused to reveal his accomplices even though immunity is held out as a reward for talking.

Underworld language changes rapidly, as does all slang. But it is a language all its own. The general public from crook plays and stories, is intimate with a few of the more obvious expressions of crookdom. The layman, however, could hardly understand a conversation between real criminals if they chose to confuse the hearer.

The expression "mob" for a gang is a common one. A gun is generally referred to as a "rod." A man is not searched, he is "fanned."

A "racket" is another common expression in and out of the underworld. But in criminal circles it means either a general business such as bootlegging, safe-cracking or picking pockets, or it may mean a particular venture.

A gunman is known generally as a "torpedo." Every influential crook whose operations are at all extensive, has a number of professional gunmen in his employ for the shooting, and many of the higher class of criminals do not themselves carry a gun, leaving murder to the men trained for that business.

A bank bandit or safe-cracker, in these days of big business, is old fashioned, and more or less of a "piker" to the newer type of criminal. The passage of the prohibition law brought into existence a type of criminal entirely new.

CHARLOTTE ON OAKLAND STAGE

The Oakland's agog. It should be.

Next week is to be its big week.
Look at this for a program:
Charlotte Greenwood in person,
Lon Chaney on the screen, Rudy
Wiedoeft on the stage.

Only once in a blue moon can any theater offer such a presentation of exceptional entertainment. Charlotte herself, legs and all—the famous stage star, dawning of musical comedy, the angling, dangling lady of arms and eyes and legs and whatnot—she's all here, in person, next week at each performance.

Lon Chaney is back in a character role.
What good news that is to the thousands of Chaney admirers here in the Eastbay. He plays the part of "Dead Legs Flint" in the new Metro picture "West of Zanzarbar," which comes to the Oakland theater Saturday.

And what a setting. Chaney is given for this new film. Africa, dark and weird, with a love passion growing amid the uncanny rituals and superstitions of the savages.

And on the stage, in addition to Charlotte Greenwood, a complete Fanchon and Marco idea, "Saxa-phobia," with Rudy Wiedoeft, the Sax king, heading the bill. What a background this idea will go for the feature his of Charlotte's musical comedy successes, identified with her name "So Long Letty," and "Linger Longer Letty."

Other stage features include Cushing and Hutton and Chief Eagle Feather.

CHAPTER XII—Continued

Davis leaned back in his chair and surveyed the people about him. At least outwardly he seemed to be surveying them, but inside he was thinking without seeing. He had calmed down after his outburst on the telephone, and the satisfaction of having ejected his rival with such celerity and his spirits. But he realized he would have to do some diplomatic talking if he was to bring May around to his view. He wasn't really jealous of the perfume manufacturer he knew, or, at least, was fairly certain that May had arranged this stunt to even up accounts.

May, however, took no such view of her husband's side of the matter. On the face of things she could only feel that all his story that she had listened to with believing ears was one long fabrication from beginning to end. He had made her credit his story, as much because she wanted to as anything else. But he wouldn't catch her in such a lenient mood for a long time to come, she vowed.

The waiter with his tray of water and ice interrupted her thoughts. "Want a scotch and soda?" Davis asked, May's back, pulling out a long, silver flask from his hip pocket.

"No, thank you," came the frigid refusal. Carefully Davis measured out two equal portions of whisky in the two glasses before him; added some cracked ice and the soda. He pushed one glass towards his wife. "Well, here's how," he announced cheerfully, picking up his glass and taking a deep gulp.

"Ed Davis! How you can sit there and act as unconcerned as though nothing had happened is more than I can understand." May had turned about and regarded her husband with hostile eyes. She couldn't stand that calm assurance, when inwardly she was seething with what she considered righteous indignation.

"Well, I offered you a chance to explain," Davis returned with perfect equanimity. "A chance to explain! Well I—well, I may draw myself up and turned around to face her husband, and anger battling for first place on her face.

"Explain? That's just what I said," Davis persisted, still maintaining his calm exterior.

"Explain? I suppose you think you have nothing to explain." May slowly revolved her glass of scotch and soda with nervous fingers.

"Over the phone you said you didn't care to listen to my explanations," Davis reminded her.

"Well, I don't," May retorted, waiting nevertheless for Ed to begin. She was curious for all her pretended indifference—more than anxious to know what he would say about her visit.

"Somehow it all sounded true to May. She wanted it to be true. And Ed's frankness was quite evidently sincere. She felt ashamed of her part in the affair now.

"Then what's the use of trying to begin?"

MALIK DISPLAY WINDOWS ATTRACT

Putting on a good front is not the only things that many Richmond merchants have to offer in the line of helpful suggestions for the Christmas season. New styles of merchandise for stores which are displaying the stocks to good advantage are dotted Macdonald avenue ablaze with the glow of Christmas colors and jolly life.

Among the most attractive establishments on the avenue is that of the Ben Malik store at Eighth street and Macdonald avenue. The new arcade display windows of the store, recently installed are the means of many Richmond shoppers during all hours of the day.

The windows have been attractively decorated with a display of men's clothing and furnishings of the type which have made many friends and returning customers for the Malik establishment. Richmond buyers are offered a large selection of gifts this year not only at the Ben Malik store, but at practically every business house in the city. MAJOR OWNERS IN QUIET MEET

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Expected controversies over ownership of minor league ball clubs by major league teams and the suggested "Ten Man Team" of President John Heydler, of the National league, having failed to develop, today's joint meeting of major league baseball club owners was one of the most harmonious in history. Except for the transaction of routine business the meeting proved uneventful, with play-ers transfers furnishing the chief interest.

"Chain store" ownership of baseball teams, which was condemned by the minors at their recent meeting, was not discussed by the majors although it had been rumored that Commissioner Kengsaw M. Landis was to attack this plan. Judge Landis made no comment on the matter except to ask that various clubs report the names of teams in which they are financially interested.

10 Man Team
President Heydler's "ten man team" proposal, which would provide a permanent "pinch hitter" to bat in place of weak hitting pitchers, was presented, but not discussed. National league owners were reported to favor this exception, but the proposal met the immediate disfavor of American leaguers, and was not discussed at the joint meeting. Any such change in playing rules would have to be made by the rules committee and it is regarded as improbable that it will be adopted.

The owners voted to open the 1929 season on Apr. 16, one week later than in 1928, and to close play on Oct. 6, the latest closing date of recent years.

Funds Appropriated
Other business included the award of $50,000 for support of the American Legion's junior baseball tournament and $5000 annually to the national association of professional baseball players, to be used in the maintenance of a home for aged players. The proposal of the minor leagues that a conference be held at West Baden, Ind., for discussion of the drafting of players was vetoed. The major leagues voted not to send representatives to the meeting, but expressed a willingness to consider any concrete proposal on the draft question submitted by the minors.

Rule changes approved by the conference included a ban on the signing of players under 17 years of age and the establishment of a straight waiver price of $7500. The only exception on the waiver rule is in the case of drafted players, the waiver price on these players being the same as the selective purchase price, until Sept. 1 of the following year. Previously the waiver price on purchased players has been the same as the purchase price.

Player transfers announced during the day were:

"Bubbles" Hargraves, Cincinnati catcher, was traded to St. Paul in the American association for pitcher Sanhiser. Hargraves will become manager of the St. Paul team. The trade was delayed by Brooklyn who desired to secure Hargraves in exchange for catcher Henline, but the Dodgers finally agreed to waive on Hargraves.

"Pat" Collins, New York Yankee reserve catcher, was sold to Boston in the national league, at the interleague waiver price of $7500. Fred Hoffman, Boston Red Sox catcher, and Pete Scott, Pittsburgh outfielder, were sold to the Mission club of the coast league. Purchase prices were not announced.

Outfielder Swanson of the Mission club was purchased by Cincinnati.

SANTA FE CAGE TEAM BEATS MCCRACKEN

The Santa Fe cagers, playing a shifted line-up, last night took into camp the strong McCracken team by a score of 26 to 21 in one of the fastest and most interesting cage games ever witnessed on the Roosevelt Junior high school court. The teams fought even-up most of the game until the breaks swung toward the railroaders.

Points were plentiful on both sides but this is nothing new for a game that is bitterly contested as the one played last night. Both teams were fighting and fighting hard from start to finish.

Gualdoni was high man for the winners. Gualdoni who played forward, for a change, shot nine points during the game. For the McCracken outfit Sweet William Millevich was high man with seven points.

Indians Lose
In the first game of the night the Santa Fe Indians met the Furrer's outfit. After the final whistle the score stood 25 to 9 in favor of the Furrer's team.

Pinto with eight points starred for the winners and C. Hunt made five points for the losers.

The Lineups:
SANTA FE—(26)—Tula 4, Rocha 2, Gualdoni 9, Tula 1, forwards; Nelson 3, Arthurs, centers; Brown, E. Nelson, Brown, guards.
MCCRACKEN—(12)—Gillians 3, DeBaer 3, Vierra 4, forwards; Millevich 7, center; Baldwin 2, Thiliste, Swenson 2, guards.

First Game
FURRER—(25)—Splres 3, Pinto 8, Norman 2, Melin, forwards; Kenny 7, Baskett, centers; Burg, Craig 6, Baskett, Jester, guards.
INDIANS—(9)—J. Antonia 3, C. Hunt 5, A. Lewis, forwards; C. Chino 2, R. Riley, centers; B. Antonio, William Lino, L. Hunt, guards.

Paul in the American association for pitcher Sanhiser. Hargraves will become manager of the St. Paul team. The trade was delayed by Brooklyn who desired to secure Hargraves in exchange for catcher Henline, but the Dodgers finally agreed to waive on Hargraves.

"Pat" Collins, New York Yankee reserve catcher, was sold to Boston in the national league, at the interleague waiver price of $7500. Fred Hoffman, Boston Red Sox catcher, and Pete Scott, Pittsburgh outfielder, were sold to the Mission club of the coast league. Purchase prices were not announced.

Outfielder Swanson of the Mission club was purchased by Cincinnati.

C. C. HAS ANNUAL MEMBERSHIP MEETING

give more power and influence to the west.

"I well remember when Richmond was incorporated in 1903," said Mayor Rolph, "and I have watched its progress with interest since that time. I have seen your streets, homes, churches, schools and factories develop until now you have an ideal city in which to live and do business. I take off San Francisco's hat to your growth and prosperity. Certainly there is nothing like it even among the cities of the west where things grow so fast. You have just rounded the quarter of a century, yet you are a thriving and busy city. I rejoice with you in your accomplishments."

Golden Gate Trade

"Trade goes in and out of the Golden Gate. San Francisco is guardian of the Gate, yet we do not claim to own the Gate. The Gate belongs to Richmond as well as to San Francisco, and the bay of San Francisco ties us all together, helps us all to develop and prosper."

Rolph pointed out that there are now 1,700,000 people living in the San Francisco metropolitan area and that California has a population of 2,500,000 persons, and prophesied that in the next 20 years the bay region will be larger in population than Chicago, and that California will have 40,000,000 population.

"Friendly relations do as much as any other one factor to develop cities," said Rolph. "In the west lies the future of our country, and I might say that the election of a California man as President of the United States means more appropriations for western harbors and many other good things out of Washington."

Prosperity Seen
Rolph was welcomed to Richmond by Mayor Chandler, who declared that Richmond had enjoyed a big year in 1928 and looked forward to new achievements in the year to come.

"We deeply appreciate the fact that the Mayor of San Francisco has visited us to hear our story of progress and give us the picture of development in the whole bay area," he said.

Fred D. Parr, of the Parr Terminal corporation and chairman of the publicity committee of the Richmond chamber, declared the Eastbay region is one solid industrial unit and should be so viewed by all bay cities boosters. "Working together as one big community will bring us the desired results," said Parr.

Review of Year
President Sanford summed up the work of the chamber for the year just past and declared accomplishments of the future will dwarf those of the past.

"The chamber of commerce has labored diligently in the interests of the whole city," Sanford said. "We have 21 directors who hold meetings twice a month, and we have an average attendance of 85 percent of the board at all meetings. The people of Richmond have stood behind the harbor program, and the bond money which they approved is now being spent, wisely and economically in harbor development. Much has been done on transportation problems, and we particularly appreciate the excellent service given by the Southern Pacific ferry which ties us to San Francisco. Richmond has backed up the East Bay Municipal Utilities district and will shortly receive its share of the new supply of water being brought from the mountains through the Mokelumne water project. This water will be an added attraction to industry. We are also happy in being represented on the district board by the new director, Henry A. Johnston of Richmond. A special committee is at work on the Tenth street extension and this project is rapidly being brought to fruition. The Richmond chamber of commerce directors will, I am sure continue in their hearty support of all worth while projects in the city."

Directors Nominated
Seven new directors are to be elected at a mail election on Dec. 28 and nominations were made from the floor at the close of last night's meeting. The men whose terms come to an end are Larkin, Younce, W. W. Scott, A. L. Paulsen, Fred LaMoine, H. W. Cresser, Fred Newsum and Ira Vaughan.

Younce and Cresser declined to run for re-election. Nominations were as follows: Ralph Bergen, George Barnett, Harry Plate, Ira Vaughan, Dr. W. E. Cunningham, Fred Newsum, A. L. Paulsen, Fred LaMoine, W. W. Scott, Thomas M. Carlson, C. C. Kratzer and L. J. Hisslop. A resolution commending President Sanford for his services during the year, and dwelling on the amount of personal time which he has personally given to the chamber without compensation, was introduced by T. H. DeLap and was unanimously adopted.

A telegram was received from Congressman Charles Curry in Washington prophesying a great future for the Richmond harbor, and a message of greeting was dispatched to Curry from the meeting.

Ralph T. Fisher, chairman of the Oakland port commission, sent greetings to the meeting.

CAR COLLISION
Dan Henan of 1722 Hearst avenue, Berkeley, escaped injury when his car crashed into a telephone pole at Twenty-third street and California street, last night, according to a police report. Henan stated that his car swerved, crashing into the pole before he could get it under control. The car was slightly damaged.

Books and magazines of the light fiction type, as well as magazines dealing with motion picture players, current events and science, will be cheerfully accepted, according to Scoble. The magazines will help pass away many weary hours for the soldiers and sailors exiled far from home.

Two veterans' families were aided here during the roll call. It was reported. The chapter sent two baskets of food to families on Thanksgiving day. Another veteran was outfitted with a new suit of clothes and was aided to find a position.

Kipling's Name On Cricket Bat Increases Value

BURWASH, Essex, England, Dec. 13.—(U.P.) Rudyard Kipling's signature on a cricket bat which is being sold by a ticket raffle to raise funds for the local cricket club, has suddenly made that bat probably the most valuable in the world.

Although up to the time that Kipling wrote his signature to the bat, some 200 well-known cricket players and found room on it to write their names, promoters of the raffle found ticket-selling a slow and tiresome task. Then Kipling was persuaded to affix his signature along with the others, and immediately there was a scramble for the remaining tickets. The name of the winner of the raffle probably will be announced Christmas eve.

POSTMASTER URGES EARLY MAILING

There will be no mail deliveries on Christmas Day so Richmond persons desiring to have their packages arrive in time are urged to mail them early, according to Postmaster J. N. Long.

"Every effort will be made to handle the Christmas mails without congestion and delay," Long said, "but owing to the enormous volume this can be done only with the cooperation of the public."

The following suggestions were made by Long for those mailing packages:

All packages must be securely wrapped or packed. Use strong paper and heavy twine.

Strong Boxes

Candies must be enclosed in strong outside boxes or containers.

Wrap out flowers with tissue to insure moisture and place in strong suitable boxes of wood, tin or corrugated cardboard.

Articles easily broken must be carefully packed, crated or securely wrapped. Use liberal quantities of excelsior, tissue waste or like materials in, around and between the articles and outside the container.

Glassware, pottery, fragile toys or crockery must be packed so that in case the articles are broken in transit the pieces will not protrude, damaging other boxes.

Must Be Marked

All articles easily broken must be marked "fragile."

Use special delivery stamps for articles likely to spoil within the time reasonably required for transportation. This will expedite delivery. All such articles must be marked "perishable."

Postage must be fully prepaid on all mail. The required amount of postage should be affixed in the upper right corner. Full information concerning postage rates can be obtained at the stamp or parcel post window.

Complete Address

All addresses should be complete with house number and name of street, post office or rural route number. A return card should be placed in the upper left corner of every piece of mail. If a tag is used, the address and return card should also be written on the wrapper for use if tag is hand.

In Training For Battle

lost, and a copy of the address should be enclosed inside the parcel.

"The volume of mail during the holiday time increases approximately 200 percent," Long stated. "It is a physical impossibility to handle this great mass of mail matter efficiently and promptly within a few days."

Therefore to assure delivery of Christmas presents, cards, and letters by Christmas Day, the public should shop and mail early. Packages and letters should be ready for mailing at least two weeks or 10 days before Christmas, depending upon the distance.

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Ex-admiral Arvid Lindman, head of the new Conservative cabinet in Sweden, is an ardent bowler despite his 66 years. In politics Lindman is the leader of the Right faction, but when he bowls he uses his left hand. Conversely, Per Albin Hansson, leader of the Left, who is also a follower of this sport, bowls with his right hand.

The values were reported to have been buried in one of the Central American islands and then later transferred to the Mississippi coast.

The search "will be continued" was the last word from the search of the hunt.

TREASURE HUNT IN SOUTH FAILS

BILOXI, Miss., Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—A few months ago some one to several persons came to Biloxi, Miss., and told them that the coins were in the vicinity of where the coins were found immediately started causing the possibility that the famous "Coco's Island treasure" might be buried in that neighborhood. Real estate agents who formerly were welcome callers who showed away and "for sale" signs came down over night.

Soon the metallic mineral finding apparatus was brought in play. Naturally enough as the bearer of the "treasure" located, crossed the spot where the coins were found the indicator pointed downward and the conservative excitement turned to an oil boom enthusiasm.

Finally the "diggers" were called into the area. Picks, shovels, and less antiquated implements were called into play. They dug, dug, and then dug some more. Everything was in readiness for the care and distribution of the "treasure" which was expected to be found at a considerable depth as much of the space on which the search was being made had long since been filled in to make the land higher for building purposes.

The excavation work was carried on with a vim that can be acquired only by treasure hunters. "Clank, clank," resounded the implements of the weary workmen as they grated against the "treasure." "At last," lamented a toll-worn digger.

Two iron gates were the reward. Reports that the gates were those of the Chinese treasury were not authentic.

The Coco's treasure, much written about had its real or mythical birth in South America when a renegade English sailor and his crew offered asylum to fleeing Chilean refugees and then robbed them of their worldly goods.

The values were reported to have been buried in one of the Central American islands and then later transferred to the Mississippi coast.

The search "will be continued" was the last word from the search of the hunt.

ACTION OPENED
FOR PINOLE
HIGHWAY

With the filing of condemnation proceedings against 100 property owners of 72 pieces of property by the town of Pinole yesterday, legal action to widen the state highway through that town was started.

The action was filed through Thomas M. Carlson of Richmond, attorney for the trustees. Although the property owners have agreed to grant the necessary rights of way for the improvement, the action is necessary to create a road improvement district under which $25,000 from county funds may be obtained. Approximately the same amount will be received from the town to pay for the right of way and removal of the buildings now facing the highway. The improvement district will include the entire town.

The proceedings and the clearing of the right of way will permit the state highway commission to proceed with the widening of the highway and the construction of the "bottleneck" which has restricted traffic for a number of years.

Widening of the highway is due largely to the efforts of E. M. Downer, Pinole and Richmond banker and president of the Pinole town trustees; Assemblyman Robert P. Easley, Supervisor Zeb Knott, Lee Hart of the Bank of Pinole, City Attorney Thomas M. Carlson and City Engineer E. A. Hoffman of Richmond.

The state highway commission refused to aid in improving the present highway unless it was widened to 80 feet and considered constructing another highway not running through the center of the town.

To counteract this plan, merchants of Pinole met with Downer to plan the widening of the route by the acquisition of the necessary property. The plan involved a cost of $50,000 to the town or county or both. Supervisor Knott agreed to appropriate $10,000 from his road fund and an additional $15,000 was appropriated by the supervisors. The remaining sum will be raised by the town as a whole as an improvement district.

Paris To Import
American Oyster

PARIS, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Europe has begun buying American oysters. Berlin, having shown the way, by serving blue points and in milk stew, Parisian restaurants have made inquiries and it is understood that arrangements are being completed for the regular shipment of Cape Cods, Buzzards Bays, Lynnhavens and Blue Points.

The price of oysters in Paris varies with the quality and the point of origin, ranging from twenty cents to two dollars. The best oysters come from Portugal, the most famous of the Portuguese being the Balon and Marenes. These are the highest in price.

France's chief source of oysters are off Cancou on the English Channel but the beds are being rapidly ruined by the oil discharge

THE NEW STATUS OF THE WORLD COURT MATTER

Exceedingly welcome is the announcement that President Coolidge intends to resume negotiations in the World Court matter. This intention was first expressed at the White House breakfast (on legislation to come before the short session) attended by a number of republican Senators on Saturday, November 24.

The next Sunday, November 25, the press reports of the breakfast generally agreed that senators present gained the impression that completing the adherence of the United States to the Court is "a matter dear to the President's heart." As the New York Times headline puts it, he desires to make it the "crowning act" of his administration.

All friends of the Court will salute that hope and that intention.

The president's initiative of course alters the importance of the Gillett resolution, which by Committee agreement reached last May, was scheduled to come up at the first meeting of the Foreign Relations committee in December.

The Gillett resolution merely "suggests to the President the advisability of a further exchange of views with the signatory states in order to establish whether the differences between the United States and the signatory states can be satisfactorily adjusted." But the President's announcement indicates that new conversations, looking toward adjustment, will soon be under way.

Pending the result of these negotiations now to be undertaken by the executive, there is naturally to be no action, at this time, on the Gillett resolution, Senator Gillett has asked that it lie in committee until the result is known.

Senator Gillett's own statement of the situation is as follows:

"I am delighted at the President's intention to renew negotiations with the other nations to see if some satisfactory basis cannot be agreed upon by which we shall enter the World Court. The sole object of my resolution now pending before the Foreign Relations committee was to encourage such negotiations, and now that he has expressed the desire and purpose to undertake it, I shall let my resolution lie dormant until the result of his action is determined.

What Shall I Wear?

By JUDIE

To give bouffancy to the long-line dress of wine red lace stiffening is used in the hip flounce, the lower edge of which is developed in points to correspond with the bottom of the skirt and semitrain at the back.

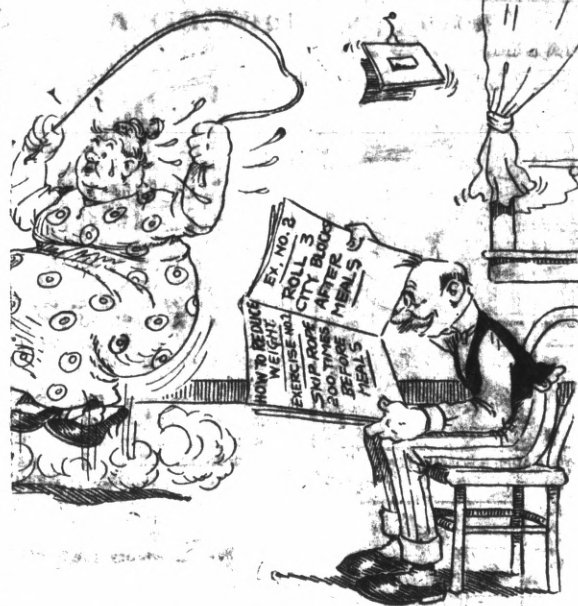

Dear Judie,

I have a very good looking lace dress but as it is uncompromisingly straight, it seems a little out of date. It so happens that I can match the lace but I do not want to buy any more than necessary to bring my dress up to date. My dress is knee length and uneven to the extent of being scalloped only. It is sleeveless and has a moderately low round neck. I am tall and slender.

The model sketched might be your gown reconstructed. If I visualize it correctly, it would require a very limited amount of lace to insert a new back panel, much longer than the skirt. The lace taken from the skirt as it is now could be cut to form a petalum as indicated. It could extend around the hips instead of merely at the side, but the line seems to be better as it is given here. The dress is knee length and uneven narrow girdle may be of velvet

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME

BEAUTY

Dear Miss Lane,

My skin has always been clear but lately my forehead has been broken out. Can you suggest a remedy? Also, could you tell me what makes my fingernails so full of ridges?—E. M. B.

I wouldn't be at all surprised if the condition of your forehead could be traced to falling dandruff or to the dust and oil on the hair which you very likely pull over your forehead in arranging your coiffure.

If this is the case the only solution is to clear up any dandruff condition and to keep the hair scrupulously clean. Daily massage of the scalp and brushing of the hair and occasional hot oil treatments followed by shampoos will help. Every ten days or every two weeks, depending upon the condition of your hair, rub over the entire scalp (by parting the hair in various places) with cotton soaked in warm olive oil. Wrap the head in a towel wrung out in very hot water to steam in the oil and then shampoo the hair, carefully rinsing out every trace of soap or oil. If the water is hard, a little vinegar in the second to last rinsing water will help to leave the hair soft and glossy.

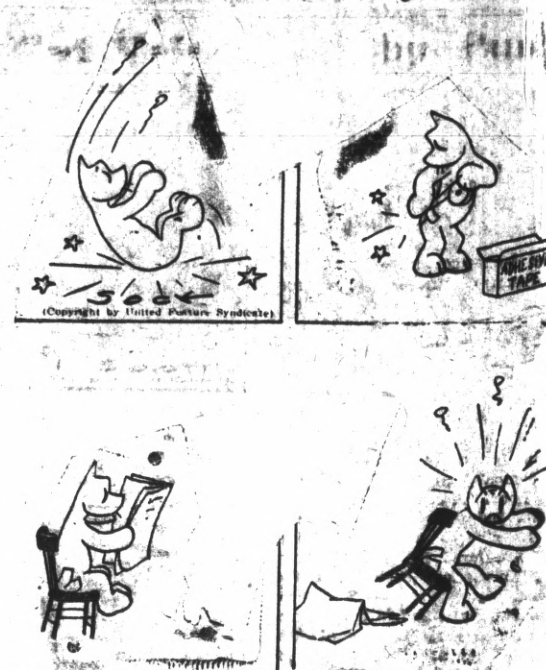

The reason I place so much importance upon the condition of your hair is because I see no other obvious reason why your forehead should break out while the remainder of your skin is clear and unblemished. When ribbon buckled in rhinestones, or be a pleated belt of the lace.

Your style.

A RICHMOND FORECAST

The business district has begun to spread from Sixth to Sixteenth Streets and from Chanslor to Barrett Avenues. We have every evidence of this fact before our eyes. Why the substantial Kress Building on Macdonald Avenue? Why the proposed Montgomery-Ward Building on Ninth and Nevins? Are they for the trade of today, or tomorrow? Think this over and decide to own a piece of property within this district.

CANAL TRAFFIC SETS NEW RECORD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Eventual enlargement of the Panama Canal to care for rapidly increasing traffic between the Pacific and Atlantic oceans is foreshadowed in the report made public today by Gov. M. L. Walker of the Canal Zone to Secretary of War Davis.

The Canal earned Uncle Sam a net revenue of $20,621,314.82 in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1928, which is the period covered by the report. Traffic and revenue broke all previous records.

"The growth of traffic," Walker reported, "has brought to the front considerations of the possibility of its exceeding the capacity of the canal, with the corollary of considering ways by which the traffic is considered to be between 45 and 50 percent of that which the canal can handle as constructed at present."

"The first move to provide for future increases and to assure sufficient depth of water in the cut and over the upper sills of the locks has been begun in the development of a supplementary water supply. It is believed that this, with the eventual construction of a third flight of locks, paralleling the present twin flights, will increase the present capacity of the canal by about 70 percent."

In addition to the solution suggested by Walker, there now is before the Senate a resolution by Senator Edge, Rep. N. J., which would provide for an investigation of the potentialities of a second canal through Nicaragua. The United States possesses the right to construct a Nicaraguan canal. Net operating revenue as stated 6959 seagoing vessels passed by Walker included $1,659,750.53 earned by the Panama Railroad. The report recalls that the canal was opened to traffic Aug. 15, 1914 just after the World War began. For nine years business was comparatively dull until 1923 when there was a distinct advance, when net revenue amounted to $12,068,880.74 compared with $3,000,000 the previous year. Since 1925 the net revenue has increased rapidly. Walker said the excess of total earnings over total expenses at the beginning of the fiscal year 1929 amounted to $98,915,429.82. This does not take into consideration any interest charge on the investment which, if figured into the cost of operation, would leave a deficit to date.

During the year reported on, through the canal, an average of 19 a day.

Walker opposed reducing canal charges, explaining that the present charges are approximately one third those of the Suez canal and that cheapening canal transit may have the effect of crippling the internal railroad transportation of the United States by diverting traffic from interior roads to coastwise roads. He concluded that lowering transit charges would only benefit limited special interests while actually reducing the government's revenue.

Skull Of Man 2300 Years Of Age Discovered

VULCI, Italy, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—The skull of an Etruscan found with laurel leaves and gold filigree work, which has led archeologists to suppose that he was a famous warrior or perhaps a poet of 2,300 years ago, has just been discovered at Vulci by Ugo Ferraguti, who has received a government permit to excavate privately.

Vulci is known to be one of the Etruscan sites where great archaeological riches lie buried, although part of the tombs have already been despoiled of their treasures by unknown thieves centuries ago, and possibly even as far back as Roman times.

Lucian Bonaparte was an enthusiastic searcher after old Etruscan treasure in the Vulci district, and his finds are now reposing in various museums of the world.

The latest discoveries of Ferraguti are stated by archeologists to be of the highest interest, although little actual treasure has come to light.

AMERICAN PAYS OLD DEBT TO CHINAMAN

SHANGHAI, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Sixteen years of unwavering faith in the honesty of a penniless American whom he aided years ago, has been rewarded and Sing Tsau-lin, a gray haired, aged Chinese hotel room-boy today is happy in the ownership of his own house and the knowledge that he has enough money to support himself and family for the rest of his days.

Here's the story:

In 1912, Virgil Crumpacker, who originally came to Shanghai from Unionville, Mo., a country town about 200 miles north of Kansas City, was ejected from a local hotel for non-payment of his bill. Crumpacker had lost everything he owned in ill-advised investments.

He had lived at the hotel many months and had a faithful old servant in the person of Sing Tsau-lin. The latter, with an abiding faith in his master, advanced from his hard-earned savings enough money to buy a third-class passage to America for Crumpacker.

The years rolled by but Sing still believed in his former master. To other old employees he would often say:

"Master come back this said him a house and gave him a considerable sum in cash."

Fiend Admits Killing Child

CALMLY, as if he were describing a lapse in table manners, Peter Kudzinowski, 26, related to Detroit police the circumstances of his murder of seven year old Joseph Storelli.

Every year on September 15, Sing would repair to a temple and burn joss sticks for his old master. Crumpacker made his way to Alaska and eventually became well to do. He recently returned to Shanghai, compelled the now feeble Sing to quit work, bought him a house and gave him a considerable sum in cash.

HIGHWAY FOR BAY SHORE PLANNED

An industrial highway skirting the waterfront from Richmond to San Jose is being planned by the regional highway committee of the California Development association. A discussion of the plan was carried on at a meeting held in the Athens club in Oakland recently.

Harlan Bartholomew, city planner, outlined the plans for the proposed route which would pass through Albany, Berkeley, Emeryville and Oakland and told of traffic studies made by his associates.

Richmond was represented by Edward A. Hoffman, city engineer.

The proposed plan calls for the acquisition of rights of ways to build a highway 135 feet in width with separate lanes for trucks, passenger traffic and rapid transit buses.

It is planned to locate the route east of the Southern Pacific tracks so that railroad crossings would be eliminated. In this way, speed of truck and automobile traffic would be insured.

Harrison S. Robinson, chairman of the Central Coast advisory council of the association, presided over the meeting. He was authorized to appoint a committee of the three counties, Contra
